FULTON MEM. LIBRARY
LA SIERRA COLLEGE

1959

1939, and the year of La Sierra's (then Southern California Junior College) first Meteor . . . in the faculty section we read, "In the realm of foreign languages we met a pleasant, interesting lady, MARGARETE AMBS, B.A., a graduate of Emmanuel Missionary College, '35 who taught German during this, her first year with us." In this same year at LSC, our "interesting lady" began another type of service for La Sierra students, the sponsoring of student projects, for the 1939 Meteor faithfully records also that Margarete Ambs was faculty sponsor for the Missionary Volunteers. Through the years her devotion to the growth and development of La Sierra has been seen through a myriad of activities . . . head of the Romance Language Department Chairman of the college social committee, French breakfasts at her home, ASB sponsor . . . on and on the list could extend, but above all, she is a warm, personal friend, a dedicated and able teacher.

To you, Dr. Margarete Ambs Hiltz, we respectfully dedicate this, le Météore de 1959, as a token recognition of your years of loving service to the cause of Christian education at La Sierra College.

Maintenant le leçon de Français

The Custodian, the President, the Graduating Senior, the Degreed Professor, the Dormitory Dean, the Freshman, even the Meteor Editor — everyone has his own peculiar point of view of La Sierra College. The 1959 Meteor aims to picture the LSC campus life as seen by the average student, who sees a department, not as a major, but from the limited view of only one or two classes. His view may be a bit sketchy here and there . . . he may confuse Beowulf with Virginia Woolf, or he may get his phyla mixed up, but still he is a pretty important citizen, and it is his view that the 1959 Meteor hopes to present . . . his memories of the events which made up the school year 1958-1959 at La Sierra College.

Like the beginning student of French, who may never learn to converse with the literati along the banks of the Seine, our average student may not become a Salk, or an Oppenheimer, or a Frost, or a Picasso, but still he is a wiser man for his sojourn from class to class, from department to department. And also like the beginning French student, he picks up here and there a word which becomes a permanent addition to his vocabulary, or an idea which then changes his point of view. So we've added a dash of French from our French primer to symbolize this growing cosmopolitan point of view. Voilà! The accent, then, is on French, n'est-ce pas?

The 1959 Meteor presents your La Sierra College as you see it from day to day with just an added touch of French to give that special piquancy which only a dash of French here and there can do.

campus

Students—one-half of Clare Kwan, Elisa Burdi, Ed Fox, Marilyn Munson, Roy Ching, Reg Rice, Barbara Orluck, Sylvia Janzen, Barbara Wall, Norman Vance — emerge from Hole Memorial Auditorium as chapel is ended, with the happy anticipation of eating lunch . . . or going to another class. HMA . . . where many varied activities take place—everything from Sabbath School to Date Night programs.

Le Réunion

"The boys": Tom Seibly, Al Shannon, Clarence Ing, Ed Allred, Norman Vance, Ron Null, Don Brown, Jim Perona, Ed Price, Bill Gaskill, Bob Brown, Ron Miller, Mike Crane, and Bob Latta.

On Apprend Ici

La Sierra Hall, the hub of educational activity on campus, where classes are taught in everything from French I to Cultural Anthropology.

At right: South Chapel, where the men of MBK worship and where many college romances culminate in intimate wedding ceremonies.

Les Bâtiments de Science

San Fernando Hall, the oldest building on campus, denotes the true collegiate appearance with its ivy-covered walls. This creaky hall is still the scene of many classes from Algebra to Atomic Physics.

The bicycle parked in front of Palmer Hall betrays the presence of that last straggler still trying to find an illusive muscle or finish that exasperating chemistry experiment.

La Salle à Manger

A familiar sight to all hungry collegians, the entrance to the patio and dining hall.

LSCites relaxing on the lawn enjoy this panorama of the campus and cafeteria.

La Bibliothèque

A friendly tête à tête on the steps of the administration-library building.

Fulton Memorial Library — a most popular spot to meet friends (and study occasionally).

A scenic view of Fulton Memorial Library overlooking the picturesque Valley of Paradise.

Les Dortoirs

Here's the spot to put into practice the famous French witticism, Cherchez la femme. All sorts of femmes can be cherched here—tall blondes, short redheads, pleasingly plump brunettes . . . Pretty likely, too, that everyone of them is responsible for some bit of skuldugery, from wicked plots to snare that southsider for her very own, to gossiping about who-said-what-to-whom-and-do-you-know-what-he-said-back . . . Of course certain individuals of the campus seem entirely unconcerned about this—they're the one who cherchez les femmes for completely different reasons. What's more, intensive study and research has failed to come up with any logical explanation for these reasons. Nevertheless, peculiar manifestations occur at regular intervals around Angwin and Gladwyn Halls, say on Wednesdays about six, and Saturdays from seven to eleven or so in the evening. Funny thing, l'amour.

L'amour—love

Avec—with

Le bouquin—book, familiar term

La chambre à coucher—bedroom

Cherchez la femme—Literally, look for the woman; idiomatically, a woman is at the bottom of it

Dans—in

Des—some

Le disque—disk, phonograph record

Les dortoirs—dormitories

Et—and

Les journaux—newspapers, magazines

Elise Thorsen and Emma Lou Bryant behind le bureau d'information straightening out Al Grable, Judy Gant, Evelyn Warner, and Jack Johnson.

Fronds, leaves, and shadows weaving an ever-changing design on the green-and-gray lawns surrounding the women's residence, Angwin Hall.

Les Jours d'Enregistrement

M'sieurs et m'dames . . . the Missionary Volunteer Society and the local chapter of the American Temperance Society both bid for attention at the beginning of the school year. Propaganda and various come-ons . . . personal contacts by upperclassmen . . . sooner or later almost everyone either succumbs to the pressure or willingly joins one or the other or both. After all, the cold lemonade and the MV pencil are free. During the year the Friday night meetings, the singing, literature, and personal evangelism bands, the Sabbath afternoon outings all keep the busy étudiant even busier; while the ATS chapter sponsors lucrative contests for budding poets, writers, orators, and artists. L'esprit de corps . . . the lively good times . . . the spiritual values . . . in the long run it was worth it all.

"It's only lemonade," says Charles Spier to Elta Le Master at the American Temperance Society booth. Larry Hawkins, Al Grable, and Dale Anderson seem to be enjoying it.

Contemplating world-wide Missionary Volunteer work are Sylvia Randall, Gail Knight, Milford Thomas, Charles Spier, and Ramona Richli, as Ron Null comes through the door.

Pondering over schedules . . . class conflicts . . . are Janine Prout, Dr. Haussler, Martin Robeson, Roy Steck, Floyd Denny, John Van Denburgh, Elder Sage, Jan Richards, Gene Swanson, and Luis Carlos. Will registration never end?

Le Météore—The Meteor

A black and white photograph capturing a group of students in a classroom or study hall. In the foreground, a student with glasses and a striped shirt is seated, looking towards the right. Behind him, a group of students are gathered around a table. Some are standing, looking at papers or writing, while others are seated. The students are dressed in casual attire typical of the mid-20th century. The background shows a simple classroom setting with a window and some posters on the wall. The overall atmosphere is one of focused activity.

faculté

Le Président de l'École

The President of the College . . . a pleasant, friendly, yet distinguished gentleman who is always ready to listen to a student's problem . . . a stirring speaker whose message and style of delivery readily cause students to abandon their chapel study material for the more challenging thoughts of the President's remarks. And then there is the endless round of committees and board sessions the President must attend . . . prospective teachers to interview . . . old teachers to challenge anew . . . and always problems, problems, problems . . . not enough money . . . too few dormitory rooms . . . insufficient time to meet all the demands and appointments. The buck stops here . . . decisions have to be made, and are made . . . and then implemented. Students, faculty, alumni, operating board, constituency — everyone agrees that it is up to the President to see that La Sierra is a good college . . . but generally agreement among these several "invested" interests ends here. In spite of all this, there is always the warm smile, the friendly greeting.

A Votre Service

L'Administration . . . You'd better not take over thirteen hours this semester . . . Your GPA is not high enough for CME . . . You understand, of course, that our standards here are quite different from other schools . . . No, I'm afraid Ceramics will not count as Applied Art . . . Ces Professeurs also crowd in time for Curriculum Committees, Bulletin editing, off campus speeches, testing programs for academy seniors in various écoles . . . And besides being dean of the college, Dr. Little is head of the Division of Language and Literature.

Les E'coles—graduation ceremony
Les Ecoles—the schools
Le Doyen des étudiants—the dean of students
Le Doyen de faculté—the academic dean

"My name is Little. I work here."

"I'm sorry, but Dr. Little isn't in," replies his secretary, Mrs. Mobley.

"I'll have the record for you in a moment," smiles Mrs. Oliphant, secretary to Dr. Drayson.

"I think you'll make the Dean's list this semester," Dr. Drayson beams encouragingly.

Toujours les Hommes

A man's world, sans doute, but still one sees the feminine influence . . . a picture here and there, ribbons on the mirror, perfumed cards written in a delicate hand . . . "Now men, we ought to pull together on this . . ." Nothing like living together in a dorm . . . good for one's character development, we are told . . . hard on the wardrobe, though, if the roommate has the borrowing habit. MBK club, evening worships, dorm projects . . . parking problems, worship absences, late leaves . . . and always noise just when you want peace and quiet. Et de temps en temps il y a un feu d'artifice.

"Mr. Bielicki, I don't think I can get back tonight after all, I have to help my father move some things in his office, and my mother says I have to see my orthodontist first thing in the morning."

"But the Inside Dope here says her name isn't Nancy. It's Nellie," retorts Kent Durden to his roommate, Bob Neufeld.

Un Feu d'artifice—firecracker
Les Hommes—men
Sans—without
De Temps en Temps—now and then
Toujours—always
Montre bracelet—wrist watch

Mr. Matheson beams with pleasure at his new Elgin montre bracelet, and the thoughts of his dorm boys who gave it to him for Christmas warm the cockles of his heart.

A little relaxation for those tired brains of Bill Foote and Dwayne Nash.

"Yes, Vickie, he'll be down in a minute," says Chuck Mitchell on the phone.

"Avez-vous une chaperone pour la soirée?" Miss Dixon has the unenviable job of keeping those lively jeunes filles in tow.

Les Jeunes Filles!

The year is gone, but the memories will linger forever . . . worships, suppers in the kitchenette, midnight chats with that special roommate, dates, flowers, but most of all—friends, friends whom we will cherish for eternity. Somehow living together as girls has made us women.

Servez-vous! Roommates Sheila Nutter and Jean Shy share un carton de fruits secs.

Les jeunes filles s'amuse bien. Enjoying all the comforts of home — plus gossip — are Barbara Johnson, Lois Vipond, Carolyn Godfrey, Andrea Downs, Judy Huguley, and Xandra Joiner.

Comment trouves-tu ma nouvelle robe? Nellie Bray hopes for roommate Sharon Wells' approval of the new dress.

Servez-vous—Help yourself
Secs—Dried
Comment—How Trouves-tu—Do you find Nouvelle—New

Avez-vous—Have you
La Soirée—Evening
Les Jeunes Filles—Young ladies

Mrs. Carol Power is the genial assistant dean who keeps a watchful eye on the exuberant freshman dorm, Gladwyn Hall.

la classe—the class
le département—department dix—ten l'étude—the study lit—reads
le parabole—the parable
la religion—religion sainte—holy la vierge—the virgin

Elder Specht, holding the little oil lamp he brought home from Jerusalem, contemplates la parabole des dix vierges.

Le Département de la Religion

L'étude de la sainte Bible . . . Life and Teachings—parables, memory verses, a new concept of Christ through a detailed study of what He did and what He taught while on earth . . . Bible Doctrines—concordances, Biblical encyclopedia, Strong's Systematic Theology, texts, proofs, explanations, interpretations, and more texts—all to lay a solid foundation for faith to build upon and grow upon . . . Daniel and the Revelation—a maze of prophecies, symbols, events . . . dragon was wroth with the woman . . . twenty-three hundred days . . . head of gold, chest and arms of silver . . . and I saw another angel flying . . . seven trumpets, ten-headed beasts, seventy weeks, seven candlesticks . . . the whirling confusion slows, resolves into orderly arrangement under the guidance of these men of God.

Monsieur le docteur Haussler lit la sainte Bible à la classe to prove his point about that prophecy in Daniel.

Preacher, author, editor, seminary and college professor, fighter for freedom—a friendly giant has fallen, and with him an era in the struggle for religious liberty has passed. God's cause needs many more men with the dedication of Dr. Yost.

His modesty matched his attainments. He would not have authorized the laudatory statements made since his death by leaders both within and without Seventh-day Adventist ranks. But he was bold—an enemy of evil and a friend of Christ. Glorifying his Lord was a passion with him until the end.

Though his work here had hardly begun, it made a phenomenal spiritual impact. La Sierra College will ever remember him as one of its own.

In time of loss, we trust when we do not understand. The Adversary may have thought, in his malice against one who had so nobly advanced the cause of Christ, to punish him for his good deeds with prolonged suffering; the Captain of the hosts of God ordered otherwise. Though months and years perhaps must pass until the day of victory and reuniting, it is as though, in Dr. Yost's consciousness, he were already long in the glories of the eternal world, reunited with all those who shall have proved lovers of God and good.

"To understand ourselves is to begin to understand God," observes Elder Denton Rebok.

The reason for the continued existence of La Sierra College is its religious training and standards. Without these principles, LSC would be just another "good college" where intellectuals could congregate to exchange ideas and receive baccalaureate degrees. Religion is not the only vital force at La Sierra, but without it everything else would become meaningless. The college is not essential to the progress of the gospel in the world, but the gospel is essential to the progress of La Sierra College.

"Allez, faites de toutes les nations des disciples."

Allez, faites . . .
"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations"

Elder Royal Sage's class in Greek is one place where "It's Greek to me" means "I understand the text."

And who said that professors don't walk on air? Elder Royal Sage comes in for a landing at the fall picnic.

"And that's how, in this case, history fulfilled the Bible prediction," concludes Dr. Airey.

A horseshoe! And no luck this time! Maybe Dr. Airey should think more of those "causes" that precede the "events and results."

"They sailed from here in 1356, but they still haven't returned," explains Dr. Landeen.

Voici le declin et la descente de presque tout le monde!

From Adam to Zarubin, all that has happened est l'histoire. Although history is popularly thought of as a dry subject, students find it very Airey. The Renaissance doesn't seem quite so out of perspective when viewed through Dr. Landeen's eyes. Professor Hoyt's political theories keep the classes hopping, especially during election year. These are the men whose interpretations provide the needed incentive to help the student strike out on his own, to discover the fascination of our cultural heritage.

The parade of ages, from ancient scholars to contemporary generals, passes before students of the history department. Here they begin to understand the world of people and ideas; and here, always, they meet the inevitable, "Discuss in detail the causes, events and results of . . ."

Cuppy once wrote a book called The Decline and Fall of Practically Everybody. To some, this book is history. But to others, history is a basis for future inspiration—a foundation course for tout le monde.

"Are you sure that you can defend that thesis?" questions Mr. Frederick Hoyt.

Le Grand Voyage

Le Tour d'Europe . . . memories galore for those happy wanderers . . . a misty goodbye to the great Green Lady from the decks of the R.M.S. Queen Elizabeth . . . food, fun and sleep on the world's largest liner . . . eager "bonjours" to France at the port, Cherbourg . . . land of Citroens, Porsches, Simcas, Alfa Romeos—with an occasional Chevy or Chrysler, instead of vice versa . . . a breath-taking ride to the summit for an eagle's eye view of the Isle of Capri, the jewel of the Mediterranean . . . hundreds of delicate spires capping the Italian Gothic cathedral of Milan . . . a Yugoslavian glimpse of the other side of the iron curtain . . . Mad King Ludwig's two castles, beautiful works of beautiful madness . . . Le Jet d'Eau, Geneva's Eiffel Tower, six hundred straight-up feet of Lake Geneva water . . . Sabbath services, à la mode Parisienne . . . awe-inspiring Simplon Pass, the Alp's condescension aux touristes, entre l'Italie et la Suisse . . . strolling the Champs Elysées toward the majestic Arc de Triomphe . . . Lake Maggiore, Isola Bella, Venice, Pompeii, Cologne . . . each name is a memory to be revisited pour toujours.

à la mode—in the fashion
la camaraderie—companionship entre—between grand—great la mer—the sea
le paysan—countryman

pour—for le soleil—sun
toujours—always le touriste—tourist le vent—wind
le voyage—voyage

Professor Hamilton exhorts Dr. Airey not to miss the Salzburg Festival when he directs the tour next summer.

At right: Motorboating to Capri—how to be captivated by a pleasant Italian summer day in one easy lesson . . . the teachers, le soleil, le vent de la mer, la camaraderie; the students, Dennis Kreiger, Chance Mounce, Alice Brown, Stewart Mortensen, Margie Brown, Sandy Young, Nancy Bray, plus assorted Italian paysans.

An extra treat for the tour—an unscheduled stop in the Simplon Pass for a long gaze at the most rugged mountains in the world.

Below: Take another look—those peasants aren't genuine, but they are authentic—Dennis Krieger and Charmay Bourdeau posing in their new Tyrolean rigs.

Voici la Langue Universelle

Mr. John T. Hamilton instructs: "I want you to give special attention to page five of this selection."

The photographer's delicate mixture of light and shadow becomes symbolic of the musical skill of Alfred Walters on his violin.

More than just an annual Christmas tradition, the candlelight concert takes the listener apart from the gaudy tinsel and garish glare of artificial lights to the real light of Christmas—the Christ child.

Black notes on paper become melodious sounds under the interpretation of Harold B. Hannum.

La Basse—the bass
La Caisse—the drum
Chanter—to sing
La Flute—the flute
Jouer—to play
La Musique—the music
La Note—the note
L'Opéra—the opera
La Partition—the score
Le Violin—the violin

Score in hand, Miss Edna Farnsworth prepares to help the aspiring pianist to move from practice to perfection.

A portrait of H. Allen Crow is framed by taut strings and gleaming black walnut.

La Musique est la

La musique est l'amour qui cherche un mot.

Music is love in search of a word, so the old saying goes. And it must be true, for here it is proven before our eyes at La Sierra.

Music begins with the humblest materials, yet the individual notes join a chorus of harmony which reaches beyond the mundane to the spiritual. Music may begin with hair of horse against gut of cat, or breath of lung through tubes of brass, or hammers of wood on taut strings of steel, or force of wind on pipes of zinc and brass, or reed of cane in cylinder of wood. Music may begin here, but here it does not end.

La musique est l'amour qui cherche un mot. The musicians of our campus prove the ancient words as well as anyone could, for they pour into their chosen profession endless love, labor, and anxiety in the perfection of their God-given abilities.

And the results are more than worth the effort.

Band Leader Eugene Nash prepares to demonstrate the most efficient technique on one of his favorite horns.

Langue universelle

The haunting fragments of music wafting over the campus from Mr. Walters' violin . . . the reverberating waves from the crescendo at the end of a band number . . . the beginning singer slightly off pitch . . . snatches of organ music heard above the traffic outside the church on Sabbath . . . c'est la musique à La Sierra College. The choir, the La Sierrans, Bands, Orchestra, ensembles, trios, quartets, solos . . . ici tout le monde adore la musique! Church music, date night music, music for chapel, music for worship, music, music, music, everywhere music. Music from horns, music from instruments, music from voices, horns, instruments, voices — all blending into one harmony of Christian worship and joyous living. Vive la Musique!

The magic touch by Dr. Perry Beach on ivory keys brings sweeping strains of music from the piano.

Using the latest electronic listening devices, Miss Frances Brown and students Carolyn Godfrey, Carolyn Nelson, and Lobeth Lowry study the finer points of playing the piano.

Adore—loves
Le Bémol—the flat
C'est—it is
La Clef de sol—treble clef
Le Cor—the horn
Le Diese—the sharp
La Fanfare—the brass band
Le Orchestre d'archets—string orchestra
l'Orgue—the organ
La Petite Flute—piccolo
Tout le monde—everybody
Vive—live

The Littles look into other aspects of college life.

Dr. Little with his treasures . . . books.

Chaucer, Shakespeare, Irving, Emerson,

L'Alliteration—alliteration
La Gothique—Old English
Le Poème épique—epic
La Rime—rhyme
Le Roman—the novel
Le Sonnet—sonnet
Le Substantif—noun
Le Verbe—verb

"Mademoiselle, what is Shakespeare saying in this sonnet?" questions Mrs. Little.

Que voyez-vous, Mr. Mobley, in the microfilm reader?

La grammaire, la composition . . . Ah, that Freshman English . . . Sentences to diagram, misspelled words to correct, research papers to write (with the library off limits evenings at that!), reading reports to fill out on books we've glanced at . . . La littérature . . . Filled to the brim and overflowing with iambic pentameter, Alexandrine, Spenser, dactylic decameter, onomatopoeia, Shakespeare, hyperbole, alliteration . . . diaries, journals, Whitman, Franklin, Frost . . . Les humanités et la vie . . . Plato and Aristotle begin again their age-old battle . . . Apollo, Zeus, and Hector live once more through Homer's captivating story-telling . . . And in literature according to Dr. Little, you may hear anything about anything from the cause of the American Revolution to the reasons for Poe's writing "The Raven" . . . and by the way, if you want an "A," front row is for you!

"Now Washington Irving did not sleep for twenty years; that was Rip Van Winkle," states Miss Beatty.

Mrs. Hazel Brebner Witthaus assists freshmen students in English and speed reading.

Sophocles, Milton, Wordsworth, Frost

Comment maintenant, vache brune!

Un discours devant la classe . . . The trembling voice, the shaking knees that seem to steady themselves little by little . . . "Your posture was not too good." . . . "The lectern will stand by itself if you let go." Self-confidence grows as our scores improve. Le drame religieux de la famille de Jésus Christ . . . most ambitious production ever staged on campus . . . terrific exhibition of the resources of the speech department . . . Dr. Tarr's inspired direction that coaxed the printed page into life on the stage . . . As we left the auditorium came a new perception of the character of Christ through the lives of His compatriots.

Comment maintenant . . . —How now, brown cow!

No conversation française in this caption. We're afraid Dr. Tarr would give it a South African accent.

La thérapeutique . . . Scores of happy grade-schoolers who've learned to speak properly . . . No more ridicule, no more being ignored and left out—one of the gang since he quit that baby-talk . . . The patience of the saints.

"About this distance from the mike, and enunciate clairement," instructs Mr. Dick.

La Langue est pour vous!

Parlez-vous français? If not, the language department at La Sierra College is well qualified to start you on your linguistic career. Whether it is French, German, or Spanish you wish to study, a modern language laboratory equipped with three two-way tape recorders, many literary classics recorded à la langue maternelle, and complete conversation and pronunciation records provide the student with a practical and convenient means of perfecting his oral skills. These are augmented by a projection center in the laboratory for visual instruction as well as for cultural enrichment of the language program. The library provides ample sources of foreign literature, both classical and modern. And, most important of all, instructors par excellence are present to aid and encourage the student. N'oubliez pas, on apprend à tout âge.

(It's never too late to learn.)

A linguist from Estonia, Mr. Kaljo Magi arrived at La Sierra College this year to teach German.

"Your translation is correct, but your accent needs improving," suggests Mrs. Noema F. Trummer.

"Language study is the key to universal understanding," Says Dr. Margaret Hilt.

Looks like a frame-up to us, Mrs. Sofsky.

Regardez la ligne, l'espace, le ton, la couleur, et la texture

Nellie Bray forms the soft clay into a lovely bowl.

Les questions fantastiques et absurdes . . .
"Where can we get the paint for a backdrop?"
"Mrs. Sofsky, can you put beards on the wise men for our Christmas carol sing?" "I need a piece of black paper six inches square." "Can you fire a few pieces of ceramics that my third graders made—there are only fifty-seven in my class." "Where do you get pictures framed?"
"I think I should have one more point on my quiz paper." "We need three posters before chapel." "Will you make a rough sketch of a fleur-de-lis for us?"

"Let's Come to the Fair" was the theme for the Gymkhana. Benny Barnes in charge of stage background applies the brilliant colors with the help of his chief assistant, Yolanda de la Hoya.

Heidi looks over the "floor show" that Barbara Taylor is laying out for criticism.

L'atelier d'art qui résonne avec activité. A wheel spins a lump of clay in the potter's hands . . . Brushes alternate against canvas and palette . . . Liquid color flows into patterns on the waiting paper . . . Beautiful bits of glass shatter to fit the scheme—almost reminds one of life itself.

Dudley Cobb revives mosaic, a very old art of the Roman and Early Christian era.

Glenn Wister goes in for feminine portraiture. After the first half dozen, he still hasn't made up his mind.

From the expressions of Mrs. Sofsky, Ann Chrispens, Roy Fellows, and Duane Bietz, un pique-nique est une affaire sérieux.

Le Chat malheureux!

It's a long way from Chanel No. 5 to la formaldéhyde, but they have one thing in common—une odeur distinctive and lingering. And the sweet young thing whose Paris parfum lingers in your hospital room long after she has departed must spend many hours studying le chat preserved in formaldehyde before she becomes a registered nurse. Those who know declare that nothing compares with that first day in the laboratory when the order comes down from the instructor: "Skin your cats!" As if the smell

Le Chat—the cat
Le Coeur—the heart
Disséquer—to dissect
Ecorcher—to skin
La Grenouille—the frog
L'Intestin—the intestine
Le Gros Intestin—the large intestine
L'Intestine Grêle—the small intestine
Le Muscle—the muscle
L'Odeur—the odor
L'Os—the bone
Le Parfum—the perfume
Le Sang—the blood
Le Tendon—the tendon

Mr. Elmer Widmer studies a diagram of the throat in preparation for his next lecture. (Those dangerous looking teeth next to his shoulder are really just a harmless drawing on the chart.)

"... a harmless necessary cat!" Sylvia Randall and Barbara Reis seem to agree with this quotation from Shakespeare.

Zoology students Charles Wegand, Marvin Mitchell, Gerry Odegaard, and Chuck Hackett ponder over the muscles of la grenouille.

La Science Biologique

"Biology is the branch of knowledge which treats of living organisms . . . phyla, kingdoms, species . . . amoeba, crustaceans, mammals . . ." Instructors with white coats . . . slides, charts, displays . . . lectures, spot quizzes, demonstrations . . . "You are expected to know the origins and insertions of the muscles of the frog for Friday . . ." A growing museum filled with a wide variety of displays and specimens representing the best of LSC's collection from Southern California. A new world as seen through the microscope . . . always remember to focus up! Laboratories, laboratories, laboratories . . . no, the smell will not go away, but you will get used to it after awhile . . . "The marvels of creation can be studied through the microscope and in the dissected specimen as well as in the Holy Word." The field of biology will continue to challenge LSC students in years to come . . . ditto Tracy I. Storer . . . ditto Turtox charts.

These cross sections help Dr. Lloyd E. Downs illustrate the complex structures of animal life.

Dr. Earl Lathrop studiously ponders the intricacies of the butterfly collection in the La Sierra College museum.

Bon Voyage!

Ron Dunscombe always thought flowers were for the bees or sweet ladies. Maybe he'll understand the sweet ladies better when he learns more about the flowers.

"What you can't see under the microscope! Didn't know such legless, headless wriggling animals existed," exclaims Eleanor Randall to John Slayback.

La Sierra College . . . où le progrès est une tradition. No place better portrays this progress than the Biology Department, for just as biology is the study of living things, so has the department been a living, growing, expanding place for study. Models, charts, stuffed specimens, mounted collections, slides, preserved sections, pictures . . . all available for the student. Outings, summers at the biological station, field trips, nature walks . . . the world around us made fascinating through the study of living biology. Certainement, la biologie est l'étude de vie.

After eight years of devoted service to La Sierra College as Professor of Botany, Dr. Brown left us at the end of the first semester to join the staff of the College of Medical Evangelists as Research Associate in Botany under the terms of the Natural Products-Sterling contract. We wish Dr. and Mrs. Brown bon voyage as they follow this assignment to many remote parts of the world.

Pat McCaffery adjusts the equipment for the distillation of nitrobenzene as Joya Lynn keeps her eye on the pressure gauge.

Now, really, Dr. Leech, are those just tinkertoys?

La Chimie et les chimistes

Chemistry begins with the unknowing student working with known chemicals and ends with the knowing student working unknown chemicals. Laboratory, lecture, experiment . . . flask, Bunsen burner, test tube, and always chemical elements . . . , but these are only the beginning. "Tomorrow we will have a quiz over the Periodic Chart . . . " "The results of your experiment are not accurate enough . . . better run it over and check it again." And always laboratory coming up tomorrow.

Could you still manage a smile if the corks from those bottles were removed, Mrs. Kretschmar?

In this case, the solution is the problem—a mixture of unknowns for Mr. Shelden's budding chemists.

Glass equipment, foul odors . . . are every day experiences to Lily Phang, Dennis Kreiger, Dennis Cook, and Peggy Stadin in General Chemistry lab.

A 5 gm. weight over here should do it! Bob Neufeld, Bill Foote, Emma-Lou Bryant, and Mike Akrawi work on a force table in physics lab.

Sputnik, Muttnik,

The science of physics has progressed a long way from the days of Archimedes; today there exists a maze of complex equipment to aid the scientist in his quest for truth, . . . but the answers remain the same . . . "Au commencement, Dieu . . ."

Logarithms, square roots, inverse ratios . . . "you must be able to prove your answer . . ." Les Physiques . . . a maze of complicated-looking gadgets all seemingly designed to confuse the neophyte . . . specific gravity, radiation, orbiting missiles. "What does the other side of the moon look like?" . . . The mouse traps demonstrating a chain reaction . . . the force equalling one million mouse traps . . . "Energy can neither be created nor destroyed."

Dr. James Riggs ponders the results of that last major test. Wonder how the students reacted!

Les Physiques—physics
La Règle à calcul—slide rule
La Théorie Atomique—the atomic theory

"Now won't the boys in tomorrow's laboratory have fun with this experiment?" muses Mr. Lester Cushman.

La monnaie n'est pas tout!

To balance le grand livre de compte, to maintain an accurate account, to keep the records in order — to this end the student must bend his every effort. All things taken into consideration, 2×2 still = 4, borrowing on insufficient collateral is still risky business, expanding beyond the demand for goods and services may cause un recul. The circumstances may change, but the principles remain the same. The wise teacher helps the student to realize that balance and taking into account can be applied to a life as well as a ledger.

Le Grande Livre de Compte—ledger

Un Recul—a recession

Eh bien! Maintenant, l'examen—Very well! Now, the quiz

La Monnaie n'est pas tout—Money isn't everything!

"Eh bien! Maintenant, l'examen." Mr. Hervig always brightens the morning with one of his quizzes.

"If you buy that new 'Jag' you'll never balance your budget!" warns Dr. Ralph Koorennny.

Les Secrétaires

The sudden hush as a five-minute timed writing is announced . . . May I borrow your eraser? . . . the steady, rhythmic pounding of typewriter keys . . . filing — are you sure you know your alphabet? . . . Ecoutez bien, and try to get your shorthand up to 100 words per minute this time . . . business machines — you've got to learn how to bill people if you expect to get paid! . . . All good secrétaires are consistent, efficient, ready to aid the boss with whatever comes up . . . and contrary to popular opinion, the secretary's duties are far more comprehensive than simply typing and filing and answering the telephone . . . the good secretary is an expert at absolutely everything!

Aujourd'hui—today
Bien—well
Le bienvenu—welcome
Ecoutez—listen
Le leçon—lesson
Pour—for Voici—here is

"Voici la leçon pour aujourd'hui," directs Miss Dixon to Shirley Jennings, while Don Skantz finishes his work.

Mrs. Mabley points to un symbole difficile after writing on the blackboard the correct translation of the dictation.

Miss Ortner offers a warm bienvenu to her secretarial students.

Prayer—the student teacher, Linda Swanson, and her pupils begin the day by requesting God's guidance in their activities. As young teachers with young minds entrusted to them rely on Him, they gain invaluable experience in guiding their pupils to Him.

La Psychologie

Why does a girl blush when she's kissed? It's questions like this and many intriguing others that are answered in the General Psychology class taught by Professors Simpson and Hodgen. If you want to know how to get along with your teachers or if you want to know how to understand that certain someone — take Psychology.

Dr. Simpson, do you take much stock in Emerson's words, "Every ship is romantic, save that we are sailing in"? Try this question as a starter for one of those nearly traditional noon hour chats.

Mr. Hodgen, a recent addition to the Department of Education and Psychology, gives his students a fresh outlook on psychology; his tests give them a fresh outlook on their GPA's.

If you want a challenging field requiring courage, insight, and understanding; involving headaches, hard work, and problems; but bringing satisfaction and reward — take secondary education. This is the place where one finds young ideas, future leaders, and the birth of school spirit. This is working with young people.

L'éducation . . . more than formal schooling, and yet where would we be without the three R's and eight years of grammar school? Spelling, geography, history, civics, Bible, penmanship, art, music . . . those were the busy days. And now formal studies in Elementary Education . . . making tests, art lessons, report cards . . . supervising teachers, problems in getting to those distant classes on time . . . the wonderful children . . . and the others, too. Misguided potential, sans doute! "Aujourd'hui we will make Christmas cards in class . . . John, put that back where you got it . . . so we can send them to our parents."

Students may come and students may go; but after contributing 34 of the best years of her life to LSC, Miss Maybel Jensen doesn't plan to retire; she plans to reread.

Mr. Emmerson's slide rule is new and modern, but not necessarily superior to his abacus. A modern builder needs every aid to keep up with new trends in construction.

If you sawed your board twice and it was still too short—then here is the department for you. Architecture, building, design, cabinetmaking . . . nails, glue, wire, steel . . . a building is no better than its design. Certain fundamental laws of stress and expansion must be observed, but there is always room for ideas and creativity. And then there is the satisfaction from that special project designed and made by you.

The automatic milk-boxer does need a friendly hand at times to keep things running smoothly—things like the milk, for instance. Lending the assistance is Jon Green.

Mr. Judson, manager of the farm and head of the Department of Agriculture, samples some LSC cow-juice during his mid-morning milk break. (Hot Pontiac courtesy of the Bruner brothers.)

Le Département d'Agriculture

Mr. Houck, assistant professor of agriculture, demonstrates his belief that all La Sierra's prize-winning Veg-A-Pro eggs should not be put into one basket. In fact, it looks pretty impossible!

At right: Here are a couple of producers of the famous LSC milk that consistently takes all the awards at the county fair. By the way, we're referring to the larger spotted individuals — the other two are their assistants, Lester Wells and Gerald Wallace.

In case you weren't raised on a farm and haven't been to the zoo lately, be informed that these animals are not overgrown French poodles (nice thought, though) — they're sheep. They produce wool, you know — the stuff your sweater is made of (the one that shrank two sizes last time you washed it).

La ferme d'école

Pleasant pâturage stretching eastward through the mist toward the early morning sun . . . Cattle calling softly at feeding time . . . Les poulettes clucking to one another about the latest mixture of their all-vegetarian diet . . . Milking machines industriously giving the patient cows a workout . . . Stunned sophomores learning the fundamentals of vegetable gardening . . . Sprinklers whirling and whooshing all through the night . . . Farmish aromas drifting toward the dormitories of a spring evening . . . An uncommon rural vista for escape from urban noise and suburban traffic.

Ronald Rothe and Ernest Smith . . . Are they seniors, reading the want ads? Just before final examens Gary Kirk and Bill Smith are found cramming in a few more gems to bolster that GPA.

The flag may wave, but Mr. Anderson can't waive your account.

Voici, Phyllis Kline . . . Mr. Anderson's efficient secretary, and Gwen Case, secretary to Mr. Koorennny, pinning up sayings to entertain waiting students.

"Well, in your case, I think we can make an exception," concludes Mr. Koorennny.

Les Palmiers Etendus

Le bureau des affaires, better known as the business office. And how well it is known! Everyone, no matter what major or class load, is intimately connected with the business office. Not by choice, perhaps, but nevertheless connected. It's reported, by the way, that it is actually possible for this association to be a pleasant thing—all that is necessary is beaucoup d'argent! Ces hommes essayent de faire ce qui est presque impossible. However . . . the business office has problems of its own—learned professors on their knees begging for nonexistent funds for new equipment for their departments . . . over-populated dormitories bulging at the seams, crying to be replaced or added to . . . sixty-foot palms to be transplanted to make room for campus development . . . an enormous payroll every month in spite of a lengthening accounts receivable column. Que faire? Here are men of faith and perseverance.

Alors—then
Cela—that
De Faire—to do
Etendus—extended
Essayent—try
Est—is
Ces Hommes—these men
Le Palmier—the palm
Presque—almost Qui—which Voici—here is

"Alors, we are going to be in the black this month," contemplates Mr. Gillespie.

Beaucoup de Choses Diverses

Les activités that go on in these busy offices read like the items you might find in the "Miscellaneous" department of a freshman secretarial student's filing cabinet . . . All incoming and outgoing telephone calls from every part of the campus are routed through the switchboard eight to six every day . . . This is the origin of the dreaded purple and white paper smelling faintly of something reminiscent of operating rooms or some such ghastly thing — nine-weeks tests, bien sûr.

Middle right: Mrs. Walden smiles as she prepares to mimeograph some tests for unsuspecting students.

L'activité—the activity
Beaucoup de—many
Bien sûr—of course
La chose—the thing
Divers—diverse, varied

Below right: Operator Pat Butler uses her "voice with a smile" in spite of lights and buzzers and long-distance person-to-person calls.

Below: What's his GPA now? Mrs. Koorennny, assistant registrar, will soon find out in the files in the registrar's office.

Miss Carlsen, registrar, checks on the class schedules of the faculty members.

Le bureau d'enregistrement . . . transcripts . . . requests to substitute World History of Art from Florida State College for applied arts credit . . . requests from the Meteor for alphabetized lists of students . . . a student who wants all Tuesday and Thursday classes so he can work Monday, Wednesday and Friday . . . "but why can't I major in underwater basket-weaving?" . . . "Can I waive Advanced Qualitative Organic Analysis?" . . . Les Chefs de la Cuisine

*La salle à manger . . . lines that grow at both ends . . . those awkward, awkward tacos and lemonade on date night, Wednesday after Wednesday, just when we're trying to make an impression . . . You were saving me a place, weren't you, roommate! . . . Candles aflame in the gathering twilight—along with freshmen's straws, paper napkins, and anything else handy and flammable . . . "Supper will be served in College Hall at five-thirty this evening"—and everyone automatically envisions spaghetti, peas, buns, apples, and milk, accompanied by the sweet smell of gymnastic dust . . . those few fair nights when the dining room becomes un jardin italien, a sidewalk café Parisien, a Japanese cherry orchard au printemps.*

Au printemps—in springtime

Les odeurs délicieuses, breeze-blown all over campus, originate here in the bakery as by-products of the famous college bread. Shown here stacking fresh loaves are Vincent Dachary and Melvin Peters.

At right: Mrs. Fonda Chaffee, director of food service, pauses and smiles with relief as she realizes that another hectic day is over and 1500 more starving mouths have been fed.

Below: "Maybe the banquet should begin with bors d'oeuvres," agree Wilma Steinman and Jane Miguel, assistant food directors.

Jack Johnson proves the old adage that warns that a watched pot never boils as he stirs up du potage d'oignon for lunch.

Oradelle Grable and Don Cowper make light work of traditional KP duty while peeling potatoes for supper.

Keeping les terrains du collège in trim is Mr. Ferguson's spécialité, and how admirablement he does it too!

Un collège is a place where intellectuals (pseudo and real) can congregate to share ideas . . . but if there were no one to fix the plumbing, to turn on the heat or air conditioning, to mow the lawns, to place sprinklers on the walks at noon . . . the intellectuals (especially the pseudo) would soon congregate somewhere else, and the college would be no more. And even "egg heads" do not look their best in dirty or poorly ironed linen. The LSC campus sans the mower under the windows just as le professeur begins to warm to his subject, or sans a truck parked across the drive, or sans a multitude of sprinklers sputtering day and night would not be La Sierra College.

Doing away with "a rattle, rattle here, and a rattle, rattle there," Mr. Clough and his crew keep le collège in repair.

Linda Seifert and Leilani Marshall assist Mrs. Ferguson in the laundry, the one "white collar" job on the campus.

Jim Connelly, manager of the college Richfield station, gives an extra swipe of the towel to the windshield of Burton Bates, former LSCite.

Sweeping the floor . . . dusting the chair . . . picking up papers that always are there . . . Mr. Brand, custodian of the buildings checks the work schedules of his busy staff.

Don Anderson, manager of the College Press, inspects a four-color job fresh off the rollers and dryers.

Mr. Marlin, manager of the College Store, looks up with a friendly smile as he checks the inventory in the frozen food section.

Mr. Tasker, superintendent of construction, trims a plank for new stairs in La Sierra Hall. If it's a new building on campus you want, just look up Mr. Tasker.

Elder Calvin Osborn, pastor of the La Sierra Seventh-day Adventist Church, looks up an elusive text for his next prayer meeting study.

The assistant pastors of the church, Robert Grady and Hugh Williams, discuss plans for more emphasis on youth in the program of the church.

Les Misérables—the miserable ones
Notre—our
La sante—health

Les gardiens of our physical health, Dr. Elmer Olson, staff physician, and Mrs. Lillith Richli, director of Health Service . . . daily dorm rounds to dispense pills, prunes, and pineapple juice to the bed-ridden ones . . . injections, vaccinations . . . gargle, swallow, say Ah . . . a word of sympathy for les misérables.

Mrs. Lillith Richli, director of health service, checks on medications to be dispensed to a chronic hay fever sufferer; Dr. Elmer Olson, staff physician, listens understandingly as hypochondriac Larry Eldridge tries to wiggle out of his class appointments for the day (without success, by the way — the doctor understands only too well!).

Les Gardiens

Les gardiens de notre santé . . . Of our spiritual health, Pastor Calvin Osborn and Associate Pastors Hugh Williams and Robert Grady . . . practical, soul-searching sermons . . . down-to-earth philosophies of life . . . inspiring worship talks . . . encouraging words of counsel just at the crucial moment . . . a strong hand to help the stumbling ones over the rough spots.

*Nous vous remercions...

*we thank you

Nous vous remercions, Mabel Curtis Romant, for your seventeen years of gracious, cultural influence which will long be remembered by your students. You came to be head of the English department, but building up a department of speech was your true love. In this ambition you were tremendously successful, for although you began with no speech department at all, you needed an assistant before very long. We looked to you for parliamentary procedures, for correct enunciation, for graceful deportment, for kindly sympathy. Your retirement from LSC in 1957 did not end your valuable work, for you are still helping those with speech problems, and you are again teaching classes in your chosen field at the College of Medical Evangelists.

Nous vous remercions, Olive S. Palmer, for your contribution to the tradition of progress at La Sierra. You began your career of fifteen years at La Sierra as registrar during the years 1924 to 1927. You returned to the campus in 1936 to become librarian of the pitifully small library, which was then housed in what is now Dr. Tarr's office and laboratory; the reading room was the present speech classroom. When you came, church and chapel were held in what has since been divided into classrooms 204 and 205 in La Sierra Hall; the dining room and kitchen were in a corner of Gladwyn. During your twelve years as librarian, the La Sierra College library mushroomed to fill Fulton Memorial Library. May there be added to your life, Mrs. Palmer, the same richness and fullness that you have added to ours.

Nous vous remercions, Fedelma Ragon, for your twenty-eight years of service at La Sierra College. You came when the school was a young academy. Your years were spent molding young minds in the preparatory school long before LSC graduated its first senior class in 1945. We are happy that you are enjoying your home near us, your correspondence with your many friends, and your helpful work in visiting shut-ins in the Sabbath School Extension Division. We are thankful that you could enjoy a thirteen thousand mile trip last summer through the beautiful New England region which is the home of much of the literature that has meant so much in your teaching life. We take off our proverbial hats to you, Miss Ragon, in deep appreciation of your life of unstinted service.

Publications Board . . . familiar and oft-repeated questions heard in conjunction with this two-word phrase — "Whatzat?" "Whatzit do?" We'll undoubtedly hear them again, because the board works quietly, efficiently, and outside the main stream of students' interests. Charged by the constitution of the ASB to have general supervision of the ASB publications, the board appoints business and circulation managers for both Criterion and Meteor. Beyond its routine assignments, it acts as a trouble-shooter when one of the publications runs into some seemingly insurmountable problem, such as finding a new editor or reorganizing a staff. The board meets only when one of these problems arises — and fortunately that's not too often!

Student Leadership Workshop

Student leaders . . . a breed of humanity who possess the imparted right to guide a community of scholars to great heights or stagnant depths. Since they step into areas which demand responsibilities and decisions of the highest order, student leaders on this Southland campus, drawing from the National Student Association's work in this field, initiated a Student Leadership Workshop. Incorporating some thirty student leaders from all areas of the campus, the workshop seeks to discover the basis for ills which exist among the peoples of higher education. It is set up to aid student leaders in establishing concepts of higher education, the place of their organization on the campus, and the philosophy of student leadership in a Seventh-day Adventist college community.

A few of the students participating in the workshop: Jim Hinger, Ed Allred, Glenn Dick.

Social Activities Committee

For entertainment, fun and frolic . . . from *tête à tête*s in the student center to Saturday night socials and Wednesday night rendez-vous — ever changing and varied . . . the Hayride — good food, camaraderie, songs around the campfire under the stars . . . then there was the Barn Party . . . the ASB banquet . . . and the spring production — "Family Portrait," the life of Christ portrayed in a modern setting. A vital function of ASB, this facet of campus life is welcome relief from the hum-drum existence of the scholar.

Social Activities Committee: Tom Seibly, Bill Foote, Linda Swanson, Miss Dixon, Sandy Young, Jerry Muncy, Susie Nethery, chairman Ann Joergenson, Judy Ackerman.

Religious Activities Committee

Friday morning devotionals featuring men such as Elder G. H. Halliwell, who have devoted their lives to service . . . students such as Hugh Dame whose experiences make them want to carry the news of salvation to others . . . films such as "A Cry in the Night" — an Asian mission story. The Navajo Mission School project — an unqualified success . . . the fall and spring weeks of devotion—times of spiritual refreshment . . . all these are Religious Activities.

Religious Activities Committee: Ed Lugenbeal, chairman Larry Eldridge, Dave Tallant, Nellie Bray, Jim Perona.

Book Exchange

The rush and bustle of an after-Christmas sale—that's the book exchange during the first few days of each semester . . . harried clerks rush frantically to shelves only momentarily containing popular books . . . lines of hopeful customers wait patiently in hopes that they can buy or sell used textbooks . . . a week or so after the semester begins the door bangs shut for the last time, and the empty shelves of the B-X collect the dust of another semester.

Elections Board

Is he eligible to run for office? . . . How are we going to run the elections this semester? . . . Can we get another person to run for this office? . . . We've got to go over the names of the candidates for the offices of president and secretary . . . all in the realm of the members of the Elections Board: seeing that hopeful politicians know of the regulations, keeping the candidates informed of new rulings . . . all ending in the election of the candidate of the people's choice — and by his own choice, too . . . the new election procedure instituted this year by the ASB allowing students to declare their own candidacy with the approval of the Elections Board was a marked change for the better in the tradition of the progress at La Sierra College.

Elections Board: Dr. Hilts, Sylvia Randall, Mike Crane, chairman Jim Perona, Mr. Hoyt, Ruby Bullock, Dr. Airey.

The Meteor staff . . . they know all about the long hours spent writing, rewriting, struggling over copy, and photography and deadlines and style and composition . . . but there are compensations that make up for hours . . . hours that could well have been spent studying or socializing or just plain sleeping . . . for instance, that feeling of relief that sweeps over you when the last of the work is done . . . the long evenings spent in friendly camaraderie while slaving over the endless pages . . . the experience itself . . . How to keep up with those ever-present deadlines . . . how to caption pictures . . . how to please both the student body and the faculty . . . will that truant copy-writer ever bring in those pages on the language department? If the quantity of A&W rootbeer consumed by the staff was equivalent to the amount of work done, the output must have been prodigious . . . the budget, the ads, the proofs, the late hours, the layout, the cover, the binding . . . but when it's done there's the year, all bound up in one neat bundle, to be pored over, laughed over and looked over (we hope not overlooked) for years to come.

Le Journal de l'Ecole

Criterion—a standard of judgment or criticism . . . precisely the role that LSC's college paper fills . . . admirably, too, for the "Crittter," as it is affectionately called by all faithful readers, was rated one of the top college newspapers in the United States . . . why? . . . it's collegiate . . . informative . . . interesting . . . from banquets to basketball, Saturday night programs to the latest improvements on campus . . . coming events and the latest happenings, feature articles and columns of every sort . . . every phase of college activity is to be found in the LSC Criterion.

The Criterion has something for everyone . . . for the strictly intellectual, there's "As I See It" by Mr. Bob Iles . . . for the sports-fiend, the latest team standings . . . grade-conscious kiddies scan each precious tidbit Mr. Oliphant has to offer in his column "Life Among the Grade-point Hunters" so as not to miss the secrets of raising one's GPA . . . for the busy (or lazy) student it serves as a letter home — his intelligent excuse being, "I could never write the news the way the 'Criter' does." To those looking in from the outside, it reveals what type of school we have, and the ideals and standards we adhere to . . . that we are proud of it and look forward to reading it can be discerned from the blanket of printed pulp that faces the speaker for Friday morning chapel, when the "Criter" makes its appearance.

Appoggiatura

The Appoggiatura—a publication of the ASB aiming to preserve on vinyl the best in campus-produced music, consistent with the highest standard of audio engineering possible. Problems deluxe — getting performers together for recording sessions, trying to eliminate those unwanted chair squeaks, putting people under sedation who have to cough during the quietest part of a selection (particularly if it was the best "take"! . . . the orchestra drowning out the chorus in the La Sierrans, that tenor in the choir singing flat, noisy tubes in the equipment acting up . . . doing a selection over for the ninth time because of a wrong note in the triangle part, trying to get the album company to hurry up with the albums, hoping students will buy enough records, writing jacket notes . . . paying royalties to publishers, hoping that the best "take" hasn't been erased, and the most exasperating, yet satisfying, problem of them all—not having enough records for anxious people who want more.

Robert Miller, Marilyn Turner, chairman Del Case, Lonnie Henrichsen, Larry Clement, Don Schliff.

Orchestra

Music . . . classical . . . enjoyable . . . practice for many hectic hours . . . last-minute sessions with the full ensemble . . . needed: more publicity for larger audiences . . . wanted by the director: teamwork, creative ability, and always more teamwork . . . orchestra members in finest attire for the concert . . . music lost at the last moment . . . last minute warm-up before a delighted audience on hard seats . . . polished instruments presumably all of one accord . . . ringing applause from enthusiastic listeners . . . demands for encores . . . maybe not the Philharmonic, but pleasing to the appreciative ear.

Band

Shining brass buttons . . . uniform of light and dark blue . . . gleaming brass instruments, ebony black woodwinds, crashing cymbals, twinkling flutes . . . to the audience this is a band. To its members, however, the band means much more than this. It means hours of practice . . . intense concentration . . . weaving one single part into a blend of perfect harmony with the others. What the audience doesn't see is the invisible link that connects the band player to the conductor, making it possible for each member to know what is expected of him and to play exactly as the band leader desires. He stands calmly on the podium and patiently goes over pieces innumerable times, making sure that every flaw is ironed out. He exhorts the players to give him more volume here . . . more expression there until the band becomes the polished perfection the audience hears on Saturday night.

Le Choeur

Rehearsing in "Prof's" studio: Linda Bartel, Sylvia Janzen, Bonnie Reynolds, Beth Ann Lamoreaux, Myrna Hoskins, Xandra Joiner, Sharon Wells, Virginia McGee, Carol Jeanne Salas; Charles Spier, Don Vaughn, Bob Iles, Ben Anderson, Del Case, Lorenzo Greenidge, Allen Stilson, Larry Eldridge.

"With a voice of singing, declare ye this and let it be heard—" and the seventy-five singing voices of le choeur are heard Sabbath mornings as an important part of church worship . . . They are heard in programs throughout the school year and are highlighted in the traditional Christmas Candlelight Concert . . . It is with pride and pleasure that each member of the choir performs under the direction of Mr. Hamilton — with pleasure because they love to blend their voices with others when directed by an inspiring and capable leader . . . and with pride because they belong to an organization which is as traditionally La Sierran as le choeur.

La Sierrans

Octet: Eldon Dickinson, Curt Carr, Lou Ann Wallace, Beth Ann Lamoreaux, Virginia McGee, Carol Jeanne Salas, Larry Eldridge, Bob Iles.

The La Sierrans and its abridged version, the Octet . . . good-will ambassadors for the college . . . skillful representatives of the music department . . . merrymakers while on tour.

The Octet opened the concert season with an extensive tour across the Tehachapi Curtain to Northern California, accompanied by a string quartet.

Three weeks later, the La Sierrans journeyed to San Francisco, where they performed in Civic Auditorium, and then went on to present a memorable concert at Pacific Union College.

Later in the season audiences at Occidental College, CME, March Air Force Base, Ramona High, and other places listened to the La Sierrans, assisted by a string ensemble. The season closed with this year's edition of a traditional event, the Collegian-La Sierran Reunion, when the best of singers and instrumentalists from years past gather to play and sing their hearts out to spellbound listeners.

First semester MBK officers: parliamentary Kenny Gosney, chaplain Jan Richards, secretary-treasurer Brent Bourdeau, and president Jim Perona.

Fired with enthusiasm, les hommes of Mu Beta Kappa got things off to a good start this year by originating many new school and club functions. A case in point: the MBK car rally — a chance for the fellows to compare mileage and economy on their cars. In conjunction with the girls' club, they presented "Symphony in the Sky" — the United States Air Force Band, under the direction of Colonel George S. Howard. The famous Singing Sergeants added zest to the choral section of the program.

Open House gave the girls from the north side of the campus the inside dope on how the opposite sex lives. Chambres were given a good scrub-down before the invasion, and it was a sharp-eyed lass who spied any bits of dust that might have been shoved under the rug at the last moment.

The shape of an MBK pin on a feminine sweater . . . the club emblem stuck on a windshield . . . these things give evidence of l'esprit of MBK.

Vice-president Nellie Bray, and president Sylvia Janzen outline the next SPK meeting in Angwin's spacious parlor.

To the girls of La Sierra College, Sigma Phi Kappa is not Greek, it means friendship . . . "Big and Little" sisters . . . entertainment and fun . . . The club's purpose is to bind together more closely the girls on campus, not only does it do this by sponsoring fun together, but also by helping others. Each year there is a project to further a worthy cause. For the last five years the club has sent monthly checks to a self-supporting missionary in Nicaragua. Another SPK project is the annual children's Christmas party for some of the under-privileged children of the community. The at-first timid smiles of the children . . . their sparkling eyes and their bubbling joy over a little toy and articles of clothing . . . these remain in the girls' hearts as some of the warmest memories of the year.

Second semester SPK officers: secretary Judi Hansen, treasurer Sylvia Randall, pastor Elethia Gibson, and parliamentarian Diana Ashley.

LA SIERRA COLLEGE

At the speaker's table are the honored guests and officers of SPK: Dr. Bray, Nellie Bray, Mrs. Lund, Judy Ackerman, Dr. Janzen, Sylvia Janzen, Mrs. Moshos, Donnice Moshos, Mrs. Carter and Lobeth Lowery. In the foreground are: Mrs. Hesselstine, Beverly Hesselstine, Judy Gallup, Mrs. Gallup, Mrs. Brown, and Gay Trader.

Le Banquet des Meres et des Filles

Reminiscence and old friends . . . bors d'oeuvres and gay laughter . . . glowing autumn colors . . . beautiful daughters with their beautiful mothers . . . candlelight over the banquet tables . . . all enhanced by the spectacular organ and piano of Don Vaughn . . . but before the final flowers were in place, there were committee meetings . . . frantic room cleanings . . . menu worries . . . corsage ordering . . . all the infinitesimal last-minute details that had to be taken care of . . . that led to the resounding success of the Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Eagerly anticipating the entree are Mrs. Francis, Linda Francis, Mrs. Williams, and Yvonne Williams, while in the foreground Marcia Miracle seems to be enjoying her dinner.

Don Vaughn set the mood for a lovely banquet with his unusual organ interpretations.

Mothers and daughters, standing left to right: Mrs. Rice, Eva Lou Rice, Mrs. Munson, Marilyn Munson, Sandra Sundin, Mrs. Dockham, and Pat Dockham—all seem to agree that the reception in Angwin Hall was a great success.

Happily anticipating the enjoyable hayride ahead, LSCites await the starting signal.

Une Promenade

The smell of hay . . . the shouts of happy people . . . the clomp of horses' hooves on the pavement . . . the singing of old songs like Home on the Range . . . the wonderful taste that the open air gives to ordinary food . . . there's nothing like a hayride to revive wilting spirits . . . the result of too many books.

After the hayride, Don Clay and Joe Threadgill entertain enthusiastic LSCites with guitar music.

Le Concert des Chandelles

Who can say how long it takes to establish a tradition? Well, here's one that seems well established at La Sierra College—the annual Candlelight Concert. Given off-campus and on, le concert des chandelles has proved to be the most popular musical event of the year, as well as one of the most inspirational.

At right: Silent night, holy night . . . beautifully the strains echo throughout the church as this year's concert is ended.

A typical Mexican farm, featuring a picturesque scene of a lonely bull, gives a concept of the countryside near the Navajoa Mission School.

Preparing for flight to the Navajoa Mission School, Al Shannon, Chuck Mitchell, and Dennis Cook fill the plane to its capacity.

Mission Project

Elaine Price, Larry Eldridge, Bonnie Reynolds, and Ed Lugenbeal unscramble the mass of gifts donated by an unselfish student body.

In Mexico the La Sierra students solved the problem of exhaust fumes.

In response to an appeal for material aid for the hurricane-stricken mission school at Navajoa, Sonora, Mexico, the students of La Sierra College brought in an impressive display of items—from teddy bears to silver ware, from trousers to traveled shoes. These articles, along with six representative students, were flown from Riverside Airport to the Navajoa Mission School, 900 miles to the south, during Christmas Vacation.

Conditions at Navajoa were worse than expected. With scant living space (four boys in 8' by 12' rooms), the young people were living constantly in overcrowded and cramped conditions. Sanitation, or the lack of it, provided an easy existence for flies and such, and was certainly not conducive to healthful living.

Despite low standards the young Mexican students were a happy lot. For many the living conditions were better than at home, and for all there existed a tremendous spiritual advantage. No one would doubt this if he had the opportunity of attending one of their vesper services.

The gratitude of the Navajoa Mission students was infinitely greater than the small sacrifice made by the La Sierrans. To those in need this was a genuine and lasting blessing — for the students of LSC it was a living lesson that it is better to give than to receive.

These two youths show the need for the clothing donated by LSC students.

The men of Calkins sneak a glance at their "idiot sheet" as Eldon Dickinson leads them in singing traditional carols.

L'Esprit de Noël

The traditional Christmas carol sing...an annual contest among the four dorms, the faculty, and the village students . . . presenting cleverly dramatized chansons de Noël for the enjoyment of the community and fellow collegians. Parties, shopping for cadeaux, decorating rooms, and practicing for the carol sing — after all that, who could help having some Christmas spirit? . . . the night of the sing — frosty and clear, the arbre de Noël shedding its luminescent glow on the singers . . . then, with the love and hope and joy of the season in song, we welcome the holidays ahead.

L'arbre de Noël—Christmas tree
Les cadeaux—gifts
Les chansons de Noël—Christmas carols

The Christmas tree shines brightly . . . spreading holiday spirit over the entire campus.

Gladwyn Hall, the winner of this year's award, did original versions of "Silver Bells," with blinking red and green lights, and "Silent Night," with a full-blown snow storm.

MBK's unusual interpretation of Christmas carols was the surprise of the evening . . . especially Dean Matheson's portrayal of Seldom Seen Slim, the wily old prospector.

The village group did a fine job of singing "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" and "Il est né, le divin Enfant," Curt Carr directing.

Leontyne Price

Leontyne Price, Negro soprano and one of the three world-famous artists of her race, was the third artist to appear in the Community Concert series. One of the few performers to enact in real life her act on the stage, Miss Price, who played Bess in the Gershwin production of "Porgie and Bess" falls in love with Porgie in the stage version. In real life she married William Warfield, the original Porgie.

Lorenzo Alvary

Lorenzo Alvary, versatile bass who is one of the leading artists of the New York Metropolitan and San Francisco Opera companies, presented the first of the Community Concert series on the La Sierra campus. Singing in four different languages, he had something for everyone. His style and friendly mien won his audience before the concert was fairly begun. From "The Song of the Flea" to more romantic selections, the appreciative audience was delighted with Mr. Alvary's talents.

Leonard Pennario

One of the outstanding cultural events presented at La Sierra this year was the performance of Leonard Pennario. A pianist whose technical fluency and mature interpretive mastery make him one of the most popular artists of his day, Mr. Pennario gave a program of Ravel, Debussy and Franck, as well as Mozart, Chopin and Rachmaninoff. As one of his encore numbers, he played his own well-known composition "Midnight on the Cliffs." It would take an artist of exceptional quality and talent to surpass the ability of this gifted interpreter of piano music.

Promenade Orchestra

The Los Angeles Promenade Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Johnny Green, made its appearance at La Sierra College on May 2. This new organization, featuring members of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, presented a varied program of light classical and romantic works. Waltzes from Der Rosenkavalier, Chabrier's Espana, and the overture to Semiramide by Rossini were some of them. Also featured were Strauss Fantasy, arranged by Mr. Green, and his composition Raintree County, Three Themes for Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Green's superlative conducting of the gay and informal Promenade Orchestra made the evening a delightful occasion for all types of music lovers.

Senior Presentation

Senior presentation . . . for the seniors themselves, the solemn march up the aisle of HMA . . . somber black caps and gowns . . . the realization that here at last, yet somehow so suddenly, is the fulfillment of four years of work and worry, fun and frolic . . . but for the rest of the student body, it is the realization that friends of the past few years will be seldom seen . . . that soon it will be their turn to don the black robes and receive those hard-won sheepskins.

President Norval Pease, Hugh Dame, Dr. Herbert Peiffer, Jr.

La Balle

From the energy displayed by the men of MBK and Calkins one would never know that it was midnight on the last day before Christmas vacation, or that they'd been batting that ball for nothing but the halibut.

After the carol sing . . . the film "The Bob Mathias Story" . . . then came the pushball fracas . . . the last night before Christmas vacation — who wants to go to bed, anyway? . . . so they pushed and shoved and battled . . . while the girls yelled themselves hoarse . . . around midnight a few of the less hardy souls took time out for hot chocolate and doughnuts, but most of the battling boys kept it up until it was clear that Calkins had mangled the men of MBK.

A panoramic view of the ASB banquet, with the speakers' table in the background.

Dr. Alonzo Baker, renowned lecturer and voyageur, spoke on the topic "Don't Sell Russia Short" at the ASB spring banquet . . . this interesting lecture made one feel as if he had actually visited that intriguing land. Surprisingly enough, le menu was printed in Russian — was it to conceal the identity of the food served, or merely to make the meal more fascinating? . . . the Claremont Quintet provided background music . . . red carnations and white stock set the color scheme . . . silver-sparkled chandelles glowed over the gaiety and fun . . . delicious food served by efficient waiters and gracious waitresses made the evening yet more enjoyable. After the banquet, the long-awaited student center was officially opened . . . through the drizzly night girls anxious about their formals hurried with their escorts to the ribbon-cutting ceremony. Once in the cheery atmosphere of the center, couples mingled for the last few moments of this unforgettable affair.

Providing musical entertainment throughout the banquet were the Claremont Quintet.

In the limelight at the speakers' table are President and Mrs. Pease, Jerry Davis and Sylvia Clark.

Leaving behind the unfortunate who didn't obtain five or more subs for the "Critter" during the October campaign, carefree ski-fiends flew over la neige, either upright on skis or horizontally on the nether parts of the anatomy, depending on the proficiency of the individual. From snow bunnies to pros, from the tops of the ski runs they came, all bent on one purpose — that of speed and thrills. Snow Valley was the scene of the excitement of the day—tobogganing, ice skating and sledding were other items on the agenda for those unwilling or skeptical about skiing. Rope tows . . . chair lifts . . . magnificent scenery — magnificent, that is, until obliterated by the unwelcome wisps of brouillard that descended upon les montagnes. Nevertheless, it was a day well spent, though the sunburned faces, sore muscles and black and blue bodies of some of the LSCites reminded them of it for the next few days.

Brad Bradley's talent at the organ added to the singers' appeal. During the week such topics as "How to become a Christian," "Do you lead a double life?" and "How tall are you?" were presented to the student body . . . the climax came on Friday night at vespers . . . each student had an opportunity to witness for Christ by taking part in the communion service held in the college church . . . a fitting conclusion to a thought-provoking week of prayer.

The King's Heralds Quartet and Del Delker bring religious emphasis to LSC campus through the singing of well-arranged hymns. They are: 1st tenor Bob Edwards, 2nd tenor Bob Seamount, contralto Del Delker, bass Jerry Dill, and baritone and arranger Wayne Hooper.

Up-to-date, relevant subjects and college-level presentation were the keynotes of the spring week of devotion presented by the students of La Sierra College. Long hours of thought and prayer and study had gone into the sermons delivered—such as "The Impossible Gospel," "Faith That is Power," and "As If He Were Coming Today." These were stirring and stimulating food for thought. Adult thinking and Christian behavior . . . the capacity to stick to a decision carefully made . . . these were some of the ideas related in timely talks. Throughout the week, as each person decided for himself whether or not he was living a Christ-like life, he was given opportunities to witness in his own way of his love for God.

Whether it be in early or late church services . . . English or French or German Sabbath School classes . . . Friday evening meeting or late Sabbath afternoon vespers . . . the religious activities on campus are an integral part of each student's life. Through a program of student leadership, the Sabbath School is completely organized and presented by members of the college community. The college church is guided by a pastor youthful in thought and action, one who presents topics over which to ponder . . . topics that are meant for adults in any and every walk of life—especially college-going adults. A variety of subjects and viewpoints are given by the different speakers during morning and evening worship, vespers, and Friday night meetings. Any young person searching for religion on the La Sierra campus can find it . . . he needs only to look and listen.

The annual oratorical contest sponsored by the American Temperance Society started off with a bang as an Olympian runner made his last lap, carrying the flaming torch to the platform. The Ionic columns flanking the stage lent a bit of dignity to the proceedings as the five contestants presented their well-prepared orations. Each showed striking originality, a new angle of attack to an old, and serious, problem. After an interminable wait, punctuated by pleas from MC Dickinson for some organist in the house to entertain, the audience was informed of the decision of the judges. Everyone applauded as loyal ASB members should, for the winner happened to be ASB president-elect Bob Brown. Catchy jingles and eye-arresting posters as well as speeches and essays brought to several talented and energetic collegians welcome moneybags of silver dollars as reward for their efforts.

The second annual MV outing . . . a Sabbath day's journey to God's outdoors. Sleepy LSCites tumbled out of their respective sacks at the ghastly (for Sabbath) hour of seven or earlier to head for the hills—the Tenaja ranger station, to be specific. Once arrived, via forty miles of freeway and ten miles of cowpath, the group assembled on a flower-strewn hillside for Sabbath School and church services complete with hymn singing to the accompaniment of three trumpets. A most welcome lunch was served, and somehow the cool mountain air did things for the cafeteria food. Nature walks of assorted sizes occupied the rest of the day, bringing to a close one of La Sierra's most profitable traditions-in-the-making. All in all, a most memorable day, especially for mountain-combers!

Accompanied by two Loma Linda Academy seniors, Dean Bielicki is dressed to portray the space age, the theme of College Day.

College Day

On March 11, the space age descended on the La Sierra campus. Four hundred academy seniors (potential freshmen to beanie and badger next year), visited the various departments and facilities of the college. They were greeted by a space man and given deeds to one square inch of La Sierra property. Tours were conducted by alumni of the La Sierra, Lynwood, Glendale, Newbury Park, Thunderbird, Loma Linda, San Diego, and San Pasqual academies. After the speeches, the lunch, and skits by the different organizations on campus, l'après-midi was passed in the gym, where the college freshmen beat the academy seniors at basketball on two different courts. Refrâchissements closed the day—certainly a necessity after all the propaganda pumped into les visiteurs. The problems of man in outer space . . . Dr. Robert K. Quinnell spoke on this fascinating topic in one of the typical ASB lyceums presented during l'année scolaire. Both the known and potential hazards of a man traveling in space were discussed with discernment and humor, and the number of questions asked at the end of Dr. Quinnell's talk indicated the interest of the students in this subject. For many it was a new revelation to know, for instance, that there is a possibility that a space ship landing on the moon might sink into 200 feet of poussière that has settled on its surface. Other equally engrossing questions came up in the course of this talk—one that made l'étude of science seem exciting indeed.

Family Portrait

The vivid drama of the rejection and final acceptance of Christ was presented by a cast of some 30 players in the ASB spring production "Family Portrait," starring Sharon Wells and Ann Joergenson. Under the direction of W. Fletcher Tarr and Don Dick, the student players presented the reactions of the people surrounding Christ during the last three years of His life on earth. Ken Leer, Richard Reed, Dennis Cook and Jim Perona played the brothers of Christ. Only after the crucifixion of their brother did they realize that He is the Messiah. The theme of "Family Portrait" was taken from Christ's own words: "A prophet is not without honor but in his own country."

Try-outs and rehearsals for "Family Portrait" began over two months before final production took place. Players were cast—the characters were superbly tailored to their roles. Set design, make-up and costuming, props, lighting and sound, publicity and financing took much time and energy of the staff. Gradually, the integrated efforts of the different departments began shaping up. The sets, the most artistic used during past years at La Sierra, were designed by Ben Barnes assisted by Gerald Anderson. Costumes were made and fitted by Nancy Bray. Finally dress rehearsal arrived . . . sure sign that time was running out. On the weekend of April 11 and 12, the long-awaited production took place. Last minute emergencies were cared for, misplaced props turned up—and the play went on. The ASB chalked up yet another success in their history of spring productions.

Terry Bates is introduced by Sharon Wells to Richard Reed, Jim Perona and Ken Leer. Inn patrons Judy Gant, Bob Tomlin, Charlene Taintor and Chuck Mitchell are absorbed in eating. Right: Jesus' brothers Jim Perona, Ken Leer and Richard Reed bid their mother, Sharon Wells, goodbye as they set out for their day's work.

Above left: Sharon Wells sympathizes with Judi Leach for having to stay up all night with her daughter. Above right: Jim Perona and Ken Leer argue with Sharon Wells about whether or not they should build crosses for the Romans. Left: Barbara Heidenreich and Judi Leach read over lines behind the scenes before going on stage.

Mary, mother of Jesus.....	Sharon Wells
Daniel, son of Naomi and Simon.....	Daniel Riggs
Joseph, son of Mary.....	Jim Perona
Naomi, Simon's wife.....	Barbara Heidenreich
Judah, son of Mary.....	Dennis Cook
Mary Cleophas, Mary's sister-in-law.....	Ann Joergenson
Reba, Joseph's wife.....	Judi Leach
Simon, son of Mary.....	Ken Leer
James, son of Mary.....	Richard Reed
Mordecai, a farmer of Nazareth.....	ReDoy Kiesz
Selima, mother of James and John.....	Lois Ramey
Eden, a peddler.....	John Ballard
Amos, a waiter.....	Lonnie Henrichsen
Patrons of the Inn.....	Charlene Taintor, John LaGourgue, Judy Gant
	Bob Tomlin
Mathias, a rich merchant.....	Charles Mitchell

Richard Reed tells what is wrong with Jesus' doctrines as the family, Jim Perona, Judi Leach, Sharon Wells, Dennis Cook, Ann Joergenson and Ken Leer eat breakfast.

Above: Innkeeper Lois Ramey has fisherman Nathan Holm show patron Chuck Mitchell the fish she will prepare for his dinner. (Customers in foreground are: John Ballard, Judy Gant, John LaGourgue. In background: Bob Tomlin, Charlene Taintor and waiter Lonnie Henrichsen.) Right: Sharon Wells invites the marriage broker Jack Johnson and rabbi Clark Nary to leave her home when they speak unkindly of Jesus.

A Disciple.....	Terry Bates
A Fisherman.....	Nathan Holm
Hepzibah.....	June Bates
Appius Hadrian, a Roman.....	Duane Bietz
Anna.....	Diane Hart
Rabbi Samuel.....	Clark Nary
Mendel, a marriage broker.....	Jack Johnson
A Woman of Jerusalem.....	Sandra Sundin
Mary of Magdala.....	Nellie Bray
Nathan, a water seller.....	Dennis Neuharth
Daniel, aged 16.....	John Duge
Esther, Joseph's daughter.....	Jean Shy
Leban of Damascus.....	David Tallant
Joshua, his son.....	Richard Hughes
Beulah, a midwife.....	Anne Vitelle

Below: Jim Perona prepares to settle a deal to build crosses for Duane Bietz, who is watching Judi Leach ascend the stairs. Ken Leer looks on. Right: Nellie Bray tells Sharon Wells and Ann Joergenson of the wonderful things Jesus has done for Jerusalem.

Oh, Wendy, where's Peter Pan? Actually it's Marlene Walton on her way down to a trampoline.

A graphic presentation of the new, accepted method of cramming by Linda Leer and mechanical friend.

Lois Neuman and Jane Rose watch the one o'clock rush from their vantage point on the lawn.

Anonymous (by preference) law-breakers using the short-cut on the end of Calkins Hall. Five bucks, boys.

Right: Sandi Sundin cruises around the corner, blissfully unaware that Mack, the camera, is waiting for her.

Below: These are what you call "participating spectators"—Assorted femmes yell themselves hoarse for the campus heroes on the ball field.

Jean Shy chats with an unknown friend from her bashful corner in the Student Center.

Right: The official Meteor mascot, Tajma, (short for Taj Mahal, in case you're wondering) inspects the ever-full trash basket.

Below: Joyce Kretschmar and Virginia McGee pose at Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, one of the stopovers on the Octet trip.

Flagball

Muffled mutterings . . . only these escape the two tight huddles of six men . . . they break and take positions . . . each man eyes his opponent in the tense line-up preceding the hike . . . the quarterback barks out terse signals . . . the ball is snapped . . . a sudden explosion . . . body meets body.

Perhaps skillful blocking has made a hole in the line. A speedy half-back pivots, digs his cleats into the well-worn turf. He makes the first down that was so badly needed just before an even speedier defense snatches the vital flag to stop the play.

The key to the success of the lively La Sierra intramurals is participation by spectators and players alike. The Intramural Board saw to it that we had a really animated flagball season.

Mike Crane receives a hand-off and finds a large hole has developed in the line.

Players are poised in the line-up before the signals are given.

Kenny Gosney goes into the dirt for a jump pass as he spots an open receiver downfield.

Mervale Eyer

Brent Bourdeau

Norman Vance

Don Brown

A fierce body contact ensues between Hallsted and Ikuta as the action centers elsewhere on the field.

Action begins as the ball is snapped from center.

Dickinson speeds past Gosney who vainly snatches for that elusive flag.

Flagball

There is sudden quiet broken only by the sharp commands of the quarterback.

Basketball

Speed and precision combined with perfect timing and close coordination describe the sport of basketball. From the jump shot to the "drive-in," the sport contains fascination for player and fan alike. Good teamwork almost always pays off rich dividends and this year was no exception. As the play progresses, the players as well as the fans on the sidelines note with keen interest . . . the throw in . . . a long dribble . . . a pass outside key to a man who pivots and shoots a jump shot . . . it misses . . . the ball is thrown in a long pass down the court as the opposing side takes over and makes an easy lay-in.

Two opposing centers leap high into the air for the tip-off to start the game.

Hansen's team proved that height isn't all important as they won the league with their careful teamwork. Seated: David Hansen; first row: David Brown, Mike Crane, Bob Brown; second row: Howard Scott, Reg Rice and Richard Hughes.

A jump shot is set off and sails for that evasive hoop.

A senior on College Day dribbles down the court seeking that easy lay-in.

Top: An almost ballet appearance is achieved by players who strain to get the un-cooperative ball.

Bottom: A rebound is snared successfully and the opposing side takes control of the ball.

Players watch in rapt attention as the ball loops up and up . . . then down through the netting.

Baseball

Two leagues in softball provide adequate enjoyment for "professional" as well as amateur status. Action is fast and colorful as the players indulge in their favorite sport. Whether it is a bunt down the first base line or a long drive to the hill, everyone enjoys the scene. The white pill rockets around the infield just before the game starts, . . . batters take their last batting practice . . . and the pitcher takes his final warm up . . . then . . . Batter up and the game proceeds.

As Douglas Wear looks on, Robert Bevins gives a mighty thrust which sends the ball sailing through the air.

A sudden duel over the soccer ball makes the game come suddenly alive.

Soccer

The goalie makes a frantic leap . . . alas, the ball sails past him for a goal. Soccer is rough . . . full of spills and thrills for those who enjoy it. This international sport has many enthusiastic fans among the foreign students at La Sierra who have participated in the game in their native countries. But it has also a following among those right here at home who like something a little different.

Players watch the field sharply as the kicker prepares to kick off the ball.

"The Girls": Vicki Guerin, Ann Joergenson, Betty Mertz, Jean Shy, Diane Nicola, Sharon Wells, Shirley Edwards, Judi Leach with horn, Leilani Marshall, Sylvia Janzen, Marjie Brown, Sylvia Clark.

Top: Cheri Yost and Carolyn Godfrey inspect a notebook after worship by the light of the silvery lamp on the HMA steps.

Middle: Small groups gathered on the grass watch the lazy afternoon glide by in a swirl of sun, shade, and smog.

Bottom: Perky Kathy Woertz poses prettily beside a palm on a perfect April afternoon.

Aux Anderssons . . .

Bonne Chance!

Angwin Annex . . . the erection of Palmer Hall, le bâtiment de chimie et biologie . . . the complete overhaul of the agriculture department . . . completion of the college preparatory school . . . the College market and the Richfield station . . . all these are concrete results of the hard work and administrative ability of W. E. Anderson, business manager of La Sierra College since 1951. Mr. Anderson has been on the La Sierra campus for 16 years, serving first as an instituteur in the business department, and then as the assistant manager of the college. Mrs. Anderson was more than a faculty wife, important as that occupation may be. She was secretary to the business manager from their arrival at La Sierra until she assumed the role of motherhood. We hope that their departure for new fields of endeavor will lead to success in all they do. The college wishes them a warm godspeed as they take up their work elsewhere.

GOING PLACES ?

When you doff that cap and gown, what then?

For most graduates, the end of college is only the beginning of life . . . a life for which you have spent many valuable years in preparation.

If your major is business or engineering, and if you are interested in connecting with a Christian (SDA) organization, may we suggest that you think seriously about ACE?

As a recognized leader in the machine tool industry, ACE is looking for above-average college graduates for well-paying positions of responsibility. Its international ramifications offer a variety of unusual and interesting opportunities.

A letter to the Personnel Director will bring you full information about openings in many parts of the United States and elsewhere.

It's been a long time since she sent for those posters, bought those Continental melodies, and planned what she could cram into that suitcase. While conjugating verbs, learning vocabulary, and counting pennies, she was dreaming of Brittany. Midi, le Côte d'Azur. At last, passport in hand, mortarboard exchanged for a Basque beret, Mary Lynn Osgood anticipates trying out her frantic French on some unsuspecting boulevardier. Au revoir!
